Message from The Zahra Trust Team

10th year edition

This year marks a decade since The Zahra Trust was officially founded to undertake charitable work on behalf of you-our generous supporters and donors.

With each year that has gone by, we have continued to go from strength to strength, building and developing upon our work to expand its reach, efficiency and impact. Along the way, we faced challenges that ultimately strengthened our work as well as success beyond that of what we had anticipated. By the will and grace of Allah (swt), we have continued to build on the achievements of previous years and map out our goals for the future.

Of course, none of this would have been possible without the generosity of our donors and supporters. The Zahra Trust is your charity, and as such, you are directly responsible for every one of its successes and achievements since we embarked on this journey together ten years ago.

From humble beginnings, The Zahra Trust has flourished into a reputable international NGO with its voice heard in the UN. Over the years, you were with us in spirit as we responded to the many needs of the helpless across the world in the face of abject poverty, natural disasters and in war zones. Despite the dangers and difficulties, we never shied away from our duties to alleviate the suffering of others, indeed what we witnessed strengthened our resolve and encouraged us to do more. It has been our absolute honour to have you with us every step of the way, and we look forward to the long and exciting journey ahead with you by our sides. We have even more new and exciting plans for the coming decade as we expand our reach, and we hope that you will remain our companions on the journey ahead to provide relief where it is needed most.

We envision a world free of poverty and suffering in which our work is no longer needed, however as long as the need around the world continues to rise, The Zahra Trust will exist to provide the necessary relief and development in response. We hope that this report will give you greater insight into what has been done over the last year and how you can continue to help.

Let's continue to make the world a better place.

We ask Allah (swt) to keep us on the path of righteousness and to bestow His mercy and blessings upon us for the coming year and many years to come, inshaa Allah.

EMERGENCY RELIEF & REHABILITATION

The Zahra Trust Annual Report
10th Year Edition

From natural disasters to internal and cross-border conflicts, The Zahra Trust was on the ground throughout the year where the need was greatest and where suffering was rife. We understand that both immediate emergency relief and rehabilitation for ongoing relief is necessary to help communities rebuild their lives, and is why we utilised your donations to ensure that both were achieved.

The devastating conflict in Syria has continued to ravage the region and has had dire consequences for the millions of families trapped amid violence, instability and insecurity. The UN estimates that 13 million Syrians are in need of humanitarian assistance with the number of IDPs increasing each year as the conflict rages on. The Zahra Trust conducted five visits to Syria throughout the year in which we carried out distributions and conducted health screenings for IDPs in the Sayyada Zainab area, Homs, Hassiya and Lattakia. We ensured that each of the clinics were fully supplied with high-quality equipment and run by trained volunteers who worked up to 15 hours daily to offer essential care. In addition to providing immediate treatment, cases were followed up as needed to ensure that the patients saw long-term results. These clinics provided general, dental and optical treatment for up to 60 patients per day and were a lifeline to the injured and chronically ill in Syria. In response to the needs we observed upon our visits to Syria, we conducted several distributions of items needed for both comfort and survival throughout the seasons. This included fans during the summer, heaters and warm blankets in the winter months and nourishing food throughout the year. We were also able to distribute monetary aid to families throughout the duration of our visits, including in the Husayniyya around the Sayyida Zaynab area as well as to displaced and besieged families in the towns of Al Foua and Kefraya - situated in the North West boarder of Syria in the Idlib region.

EMERGENCY RELIEF & REHABILITATION

In addition to those who remain in Syria, we have not forgotten the 5.6 million refugees that have fled the violence and bloodshed in hope of a better life elsewhere. Their plight was notably absent from our headlines over the last year, despite the fact that many continue to remain living in squalor within European camps that are unfit for habitation since 2012. Riots, fires and widespread illness are commonplace, leaving families in constant fear for their safety. As a result, both their physical and mental conditions have deteriorated over the years, as they remain trapped, vilified and mourning the loss of the lives they once had. The Zahra Trust is one of the only NGOs left on the ground providing support to these refugees, providing medical assistance to those in need of it. Despite the dangers, we held clinics throughout the year that provided GP and dental services to the chronically ill, injured and those in need of urgent care across two locations in the Moria camp, Lesvos. The dedicated medical volunteers that run these clinics can see up to 100 patients in need of their services each day that can range from childbirth to PTSD and sudden blindness.

In Yemen, a staggering 24 million - roughly %80 of the population - is in need of humanitarian support, with the ongoing violence continuing to exacerbate poverty levels. Famine is a key defining feature of the conflict and has led to tens of thousands of deaths since 2016, many of whom were children. With this in mind, The Zahra Trust's humanitarian intervention consisted of the distribution of staple, nutritious food items to alleviate hunger and prevent malnutrition and malnourishment. We reached 160 families in need with these food parcels that contained enough food for a family for one month on average. We were also able to provide relief in the form of financial aid, distributing cash to 23 families in dire circumstances, including those who are ill, disabled or separated from their families.

FOOD DRIVE

The Zahra Trust Annual Report
10th Year Edition

Ramadhan

The month of Ramadhan is a time of reflection, devotion and appreciation. It is also a time to practice compassion for those who are less fortunate than ourselves, in particular families that cannot afford nutritious food to break their fast or prepare for the long day ahead with a nourishing sehri meal. Our deeds are indeed multiplied in Ramadhan, and feeding fasting families is both a beloved and rewarding act, which is why The Zahra Trust facilitates this work on behalf of its donors each year.

In Ramadhan 2018, The Zahra Trust provided iftar to a collective group of 5,000 people every night of Ramadhan in Pakistan, and on nights of Qadr provided iftar to an additional 6,000 people. We also provided 3,670 families in need with food for an entire year in the Punjab province in addition to 63 families in Parachinar. This project is aimed specifically at vulnerable families, including widows, orphans, the elderly and those who are disabled or ill.

The Zahra Trust held community iftars for Rohingya IDPs and refugees in Myanmar within the Yangon Hussaini Centre during Qadr nights, and in Kenya, 257 food parcels were also distributed in addition to the 850 meals per night that were served within a local Masjid. A further 500 families in Tanzania benefitted from Zahra Trust's food parcel distributions which helped ease the burden on them to prepare meals with limited resources at their disposal.

In India, food parcels were distributed to 515 families throughout Ramadhan across four districts of Bombay to help them prepare meals throughout the month. In addition, 150 people received iftar daily across two areas of Bombay, and during the Qadr nights, we increased our iftar distributions to reach 550 people in Mumbra, north east of Bombay.

Our food assistance throughout Ramadhan 2018 reached areas of ongoing conflict where families living in uncertainty and instability often feel marginalised and in need of the familiarity and comforts of their religion and traditions. For this reason, Ramadhan can be a particularly difficult time for the families we help, and in keeping with this we ensured that they were not forgotten. The Zahra Trust distributed food supplies to families throughout the entire month in Iraq, providing nourishing meals for widows and orphans during seasonal events such as Shahaadat and Wilayat. Through this initiative, we were also able to feed hundreds of orphans and widows weekly.

Qurbani

Your religious duties were once again entrusted upon us in 2018, and as a result, we were able to conduct sacrifices of high quality livestock from local producers on the blessed occasion of Eid ul-Adha. The meat was then distributed to families in need, with a focus on widows, orphans and struggling, vulnerable families. Over 222 animals were slaughtered across our areas of operation, including Iraq, Yemen, Syria, Afghanistan and Pakistan.

EMPOWERING COMMUNITIES

The Zahra Trust Annual Report
10th Year Edition

EMPOWERING COMMUNITIES

Focusing on our local communities and the development of our children is just as crucial as supporting international communities. At The Zahra Trust, we have introduced initiatives that advance the religious knowledge and understanding of children in our communities as well as encouraging them to reflect upon and emulate the role models of Ahlul Bayt, all in a fun and adventurous environment. Whilst developing the children's' keen interests and commitments to their faith, we also take the opportunity to impart practical, valuable life skills that we hope will empower them to develop into the next generation of leaders.

Project Majlis

In 2018, 'Project Majlis' was the biggest and boldest yet. The event fully took place in sand and included a real life horse to represent Zuljina, helping the children to fully engage in the activities and visualize the sands of Karbala when the battle of Ashura took place. The children were involved at every stage, helping set up by making tents, creating a replica of river Furrat from blue gel balls and making Sherbat and Tabbaruk. The children also produced artwork on canvases about the day of Ashura to reinforce their understanding of the events and express their creativity.

MEDICAL AID

The Zahra Trust Annual Report
10th Year Edition

Water and sanitation is essential for the maintenance of hygiene, good health and indeed life. Without it, life-threatening illnesses, waterborne diseases and multiple deaths ensue. Furthermore, in the pursuit of water and access to sanitation facilities such as toilets, people—predominantly women and girls—are subject to abuse and attacks. Throughout 2018, The Zahra Trust successfully safeguarded people in need from these threats with sanitation facilities and ensured that they were given their right to clean, safe water.

Access to water in Yemen is severely restricted, with the UN reporting that millions lack access to water due to its contamination or danger accessing it. Water plants in Yemen have been targeted during the ongoing conflict and due to its geography, it is hard to pump water. In 2018, The Zahra Trust ensured that two thousand people in Yemen were given access to safe drinking water in the form of a well. In the absence of power, we utilized solar power to run the well which is 300ft deep.

The Zahra Trust provided 23 families in Pakistan with a water hand pump for drinking, cleaning and cooking. We also provided each family with a sanitary toilet facilities to maintain their dignity, safety and prevent the spread of illness. We specifically targeted families of widows and orphans as well as low-income families who otherwise have little or no access to water and sanitation facilities.

FAMILY WELFARE

The Zahra Trust Annual Report
10th Year Edition

The positive functioning of society centres upon the institution of the family, which is why The Zahra Trust implements projects that help create and support families, as well as help to develop individuals into contributing, valuable members of society. In 2018, these areas of support were vast, and by applying specific methods to provide lasting solutions, we were able to improve the lives and circumstances of thousands of families.

In addition to school subjects, religious education has multiple benefits and helps to instil a sense of community in people with shared values and beliefs. In 2018, The Zahra Trust ran a religious education scheme in Iraq for mothers and children in the form of Tabligh classes. The classes covered Tafsir, Fiqh, akhlaaq, tariq classes and included general discussions surrounding common issues faced by families. Social and spiritual trips and activities were also arranged to help the participants maintain a network of support in their daily lives outside of the classes.

The Zahra Trust also contributed to the building of a mosque and community centre in the Punjab region of Pakistan within an area that otherwise had no mosque or centre for the Muslim community to meet, socialize and provide support for one another. This centre benefits 1,250 people, and there are plans to expand its functions to include funeral services and a ghusl kafan room.

With family life centering around the home, we know that living conditions can significantly impact families in terms of their standard of life, dignity and psychological welfare. In keeping with this, we implemented 30 home improvements for families in Iraq which ranged from building toilets to providing heating and cooling facilities to protect each family against the elements.

Last year, a fire destroyed the homes and belongings of three families that were left devastated in Shighar Baltistan, Pakistan. The Zahra Trust provided each family with financial assistance to help them get back on their feet and rebuild their lives, and included tailored support in the form of a prosthetic leg for one of the members of the families that sadly lost his leg in the fire.

Providing long-term support for an individual or a family in the form of sponsorship is a beautiful form of sadaqah jaariyah, and is a way to gain greater insight and a closer connection to the individuals you are directly supporting. The Zahra Trust gives you the opportunity to give in the form of sponsorship all year round to widows, orphans and vulnerable children.

As of 2018, The Zahra Trust continued to provide support to over 5,000 children in need across our areas of operation along with the children in their respective communities. Through financial aid, community initiatives and fun days for the children, we are able to provide relief, enable them to enjoy their childhood and ensure that they are able to focus on education rather than being forced into child labour.

Our widow sponsorship programme also ensures that widows receive regular financial support which provides them and their children with much-needed peace of mind and stability. Through your generosity, we were able to support hundreds of widows through our widow sponsorship programme in 2018.

Marriage Assistance

The cost of marriage can prevent the children of poorer families from starting their own families or even receiving proposals. The Zahra Trust's initiative to provide marriage assistance through sponsorship to the children of widows and those from impoverished backgrounds continued to be incredibly successful. This year, we supported marriages between hundreds of individuals, from covering the cost of their ceremonies and clothes to providing furniture for their new marital home. This initiative has helped to form so many families since it was introduced and those who have benefitted from it have been able to begin their new lives with dignity.

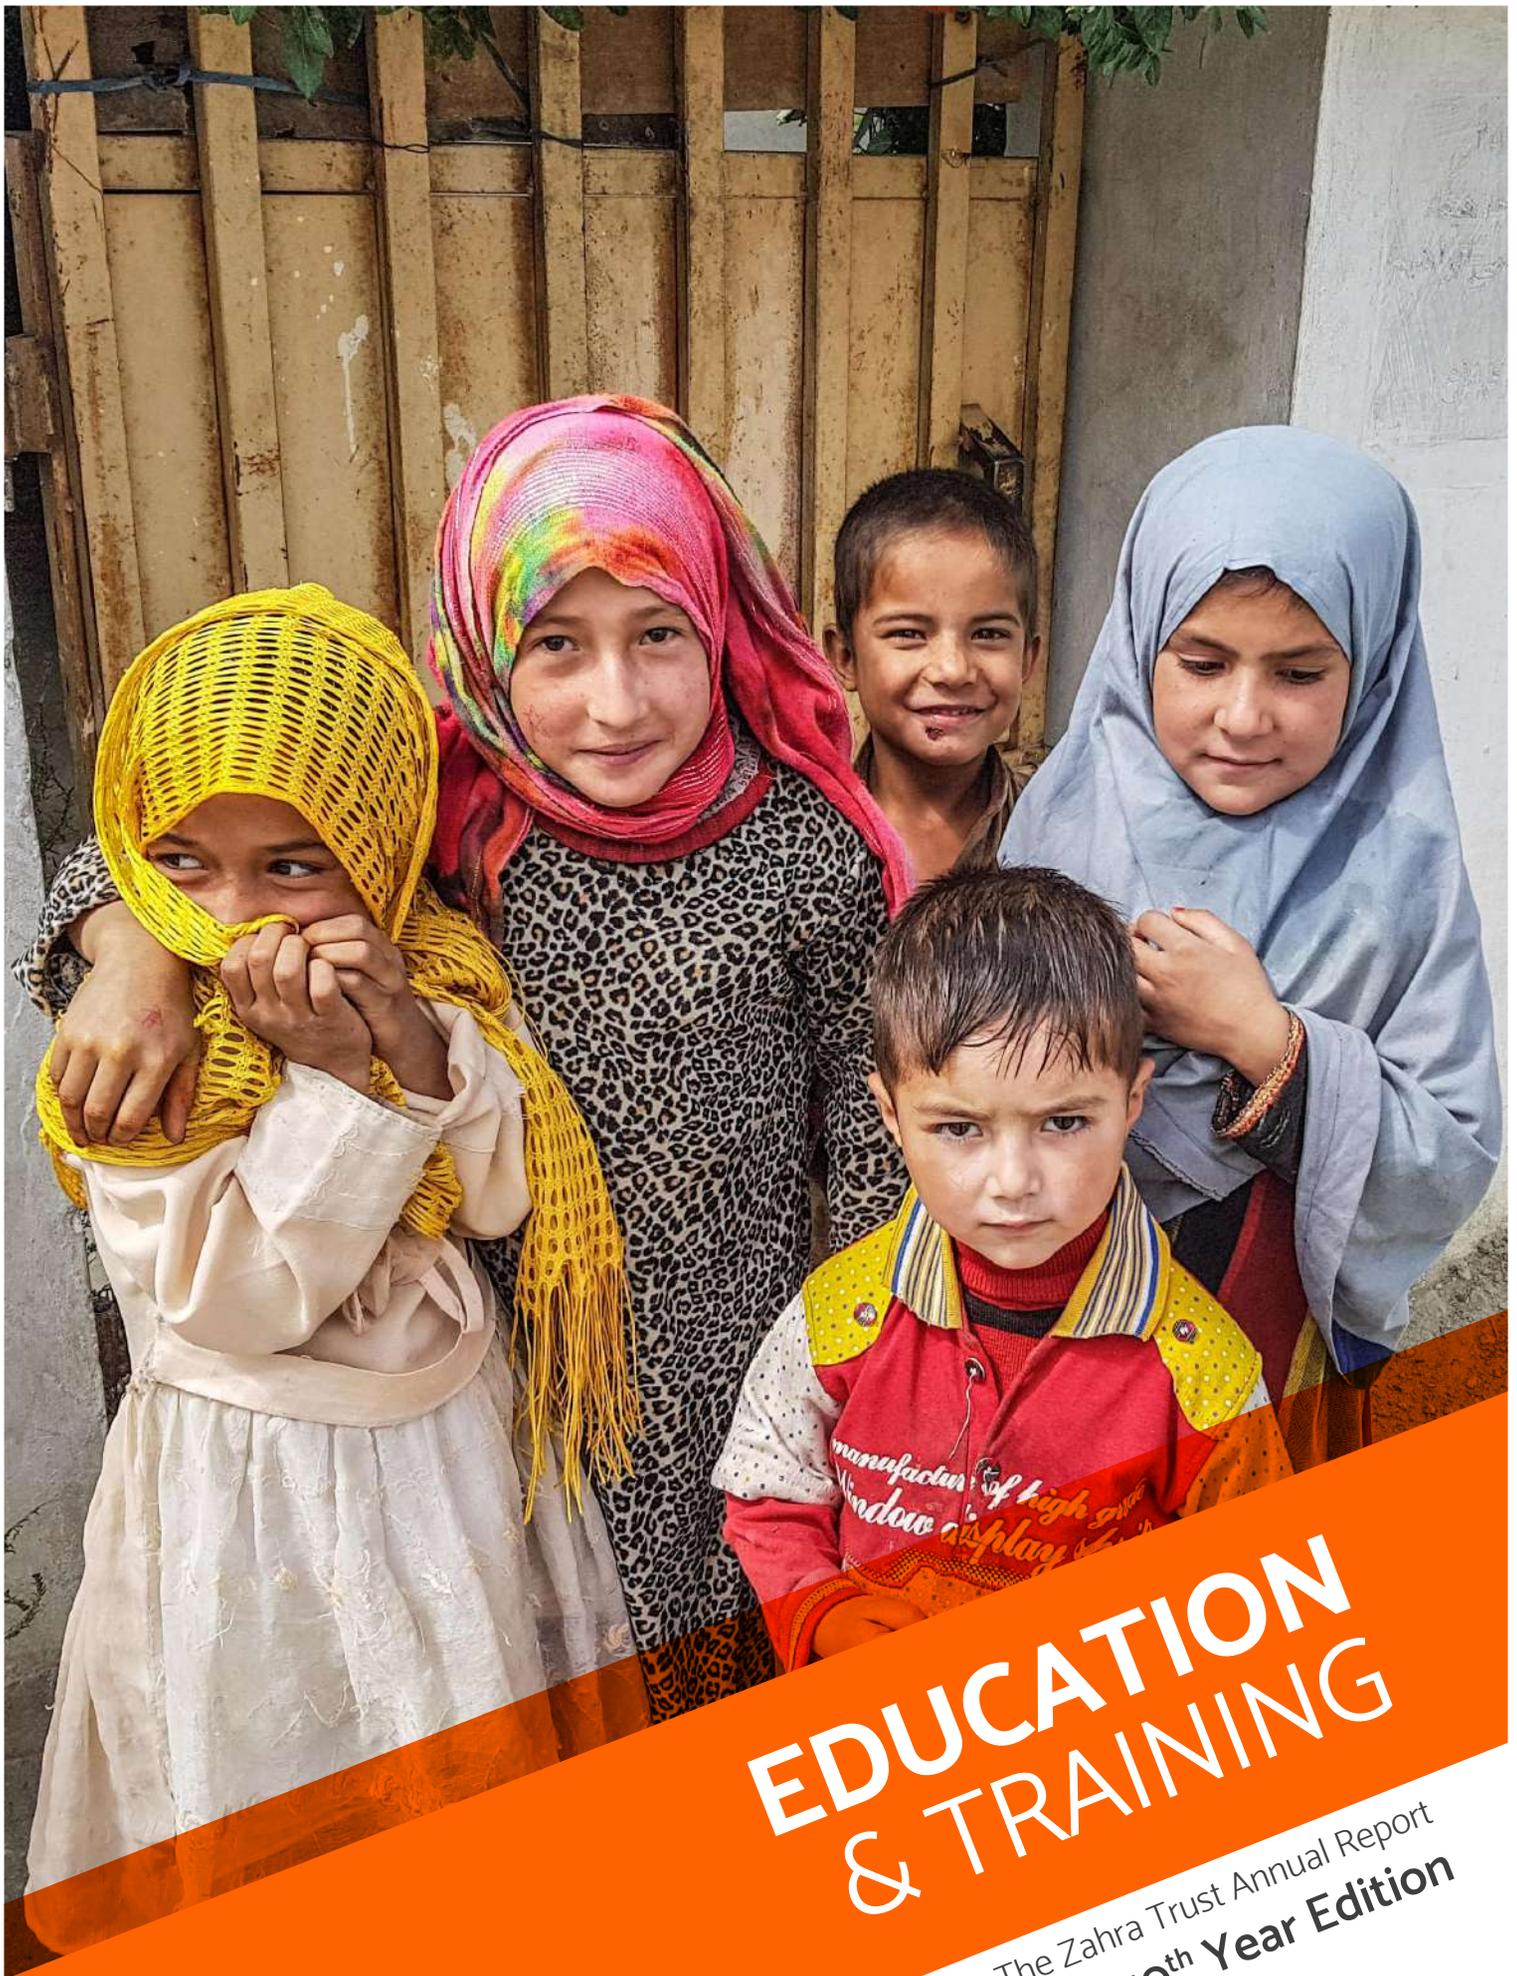

Eid Gifts

In 2018, we marked the blessed and joyous occasions of Eid with gifts for the less fortunate who would otherwise have been excluded from the celebrations. These gifts ranged from toys and clothes for children to clothing, shoes and hijabs for widows and vulnerable women.

We were able to provide Eid gifts to 127 children and 79 widows and elderly people in Pakistan who received clothes, shoes and hijabs. 156 children in Iraq were also gifted new clothes for Eid, along with 104 children in India.

Through the generosity of your donations, we were able to bring happiness, dignity and joy to hundreds of families during Eid.

EDUCATION & TRAINING

The Zahra Trust Annual Report
10th Year Edition

Education is a key component of development, and is arguably the most important, as it has the power to bring entire families out of the cycle of poverty. A quality and balanced education or training in a marketable skill provides benefits beyond the individual to entire families and communities.

In 2018, The Zahra Trust invested in the education of Rohingya children in Myanmar. The ultimate aim of empowering Rohingya children through education and support for their physical and mental development is to encourage the development of entire communities through their younger generations. With this aim in mind, we coordinated a holistic project to facilitate development for over 500 Rohingya children by renovating two temporary learning schools and equipping them with fencing for increased security as well as facilities for sport and physical activity. We maximized the impact of this project by providing high-quality training to the schools' teachers and adding a water and sanitation component to the project. This included the provision of toilet and shower facilities as well as a fresh water hand pump for drinking, washing and cooking. Each of the 500 children that attend the school also received uniforms and hygiene kits to promote greater health and prevent the absence of children from school due to illness.

Decades of instability in Iraq have led to high rates of unemployment and lower school attendance and literacy rates. Whilst figures suggest that these conditions are very gradually improving as time goes on, a lot is yet to be done to ensure that access to education and opportunities for employment are possible for all. Over the last year, The Zahra Trust provided weekly tuition sessions in core academic subjects to hundreds of orphaned children in Karbala and Najaf, aimed at improving and building upon their school education. The children also benefitted from basic computer skill classes with the objective of boosting their future employment skills. Each classroom contains state of the art equipment and computer facilities and each child also receives food and drink during the sessions to ease the burden on their families to provide them. In order to facilitate bonding, enhance the learning process and provide trauma relief, we also take the children on regular fun days to restaurants, fun fairs and spiritual visits to shrines in Najaf. Religious education is included in the sessions, and majalis are held in waladat and shahadat as well as throughout Ramadhan.

Gifted and talented students should not be held back by poverty, and therefore in line with this belief, The Zahra Trust provides grants to exceptional students who otherwise would not be able to afford to continue with their education due to severe financial hardship. In Pakistan, we granted Zeeshan Haider a scholarship to cover pre-medical college fees to help him achieve his goal of becoming a doctor and giving back to his community.
